PLANNING

Planning for Renewables

Newly enacted legislation requires New York to get 70 percent of it's electricity from renewable sources like wind, solar and hydro-power by 2030, and create a statewide electrical demand system with zero emissions by 2040. Some municipalities in the county have grappled with the need to determine how best to plan for and regulate solar facilities at the local level that both protect community character and at the same time support and encourage renewable forms of producing power. Principal Planner Rich Schiafo has created a helpful list of resources with links to find additional information. He can be reached by email at rschiafo@discovergreene.com, or phone at (518) 719-3290.

Census 2020

The Census Bureau is hiring a large number of temporary workers for the 2020 Census at 2020census.gov/en/jobs. Greene County residents are reminded that the 2020 Census will be mailed on April 1, and completing the Census with your Greene County address helps the Census compete for Federal funding in a variety of program areas. Please be aware of the Census and complete it in Greene County as soon as you get it.
